Project Description

The Convention centre in Baden-Baden has been extended with the so-called Park Pavillion. This newly created space is used for all kinds of conventions and events. Therefore, the floor in the Park Pavillion has to carry a lot of different weights on a regular basis. For this reason, the whole area was fitted with the steadfast NORTEC raised floor system. A natural stone covering was chosen for this project, which is goes very well together with the transparent extension of the building.
