Project Description

The Performance Center at Golf Sempach sets new standards in the world of golf as the largest indoor training facility in Switzerland. Equipped with state-of-the-art technology, it offers golfers first-class training opportunities all year round, regardless of the weather or season. The centre combines various high-quality training areas: while the indoor golf facilities along with a fitness area are located on the lower floor, the upper floor houses e-sports simulators for digital golf training.

The Swiss branch of the Lindner SE played a key role in the interior fit-out, supplying high-quality partition systems to clearly define different areas.
Among the solutions used were the Lindner Life Stereo 125 glass partitions, which provided both sound insulation and fire resistance in classes EI 30 and EI 60. Additionally, the Lindner Logic 100 Timber wooden partition was installed to ensure a stylish and effective room separation with enhanced soundproofing.

Fire-tested HTB 68 wooden doors lead to a modern fitness area. In the office spaces, HTB 41 wooden doors were chosen as well. High-speed doors provide a secure connection to the free golf areas, ensuring seamless integration between indoor and outdoor spaces.

During the construction phase, Lindner also implemented extensive dust protection measures and carried out precise covering works – particularly for the artificial embankment of the golf sand area.
